

CMU IEEE Corporate Sponsorship Packages

CMU IEEE

The Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE) is a professional organization for members of the Electrical and Computer related fields. Today, the international organization has over 400,000 members and is known for their publications and standards around the world.

We are Carnegie Mellon University's Student Chapter of IEEE. CMU IEEE is a networking organization within the Electrical and Computer Engineering (ECE) department at Carnegie Mellon. We want to provide a social, technical and professional community for the ECE student body. We strive to help the ECE community gain knowledge, skills and networks that will help them through their academic and professional careers.

WHY SUPPORT IEEE?

Carnegie Mellon University has one of the top Electrical and Computer Engineering programs in the world. Supporters of CMU IEEE will get to promotions in our events and get access to CMU's students through company events, resume books and more!
